

II. SIGNIFICANT INTERDICTIONS IN 2012

1. Stimulants

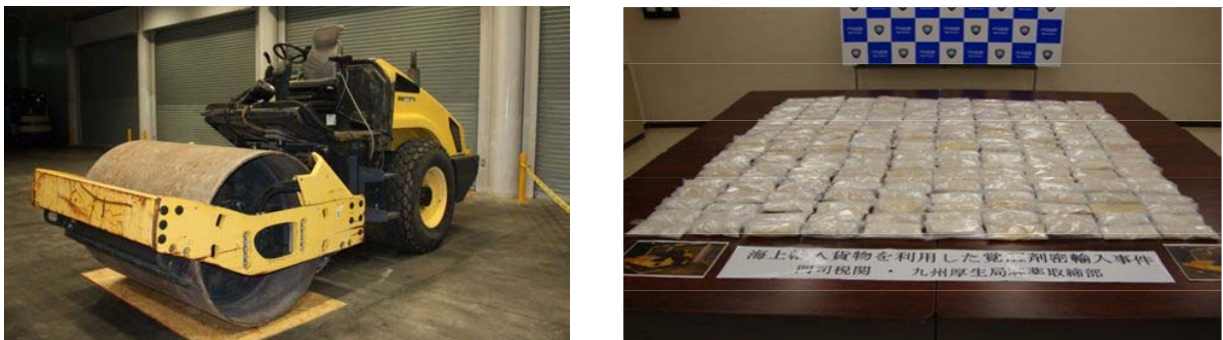

【Interdiction of stimulants concealed in bags of coffee beans】

In August 2012, Osaka Customs interdicted a Japanese woman arriving from Uganda carrying about 2 kg of stimulants concealed in bags of coffee beans found in her suitcase during hand luggage inspection.

【Interdiction of stimulants concealed inside of a steamroller】

In December 2012, Moji Customs interdicted about 109 kg of stimulants concealed inside a steamroller loaded into a shipping container arriving from Holland.

【Interdiction of stimulants concealed in folk craft items】

In February 2012, while conducting hand luggage inspection, Tokyo Customs interdicted about 1.5 kg of stimulants concealed within the fibers of a folk art basket carried by a Canadian man arriving from Canada.

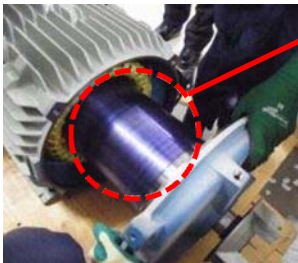

【Interdiction of stimulants concealed in diving equipment】

In June 2012, Okinawa area customs officials interdicted about 5 kg of stimulants concealed inside a diving jacket during hand luggage inspection of a Japanese man arriving from Hong Kong.

【Interdiction of stimulants concealed inside of a pump device】

In February 2012, Tokyo Customs interdicted about 4.6 kg of stimulants concealed inside a pump device during an inspection of air freight cargo arriving from Mexico.

2. Cannabis

【Interdiction of cannabis concealed inside of a propeller shaft】

In October 2012, Tokyo Customs interdicted about 40 kg of cannabis concealed inside a propeller shaft during an inspection of air freight cargo arriving from the United States.

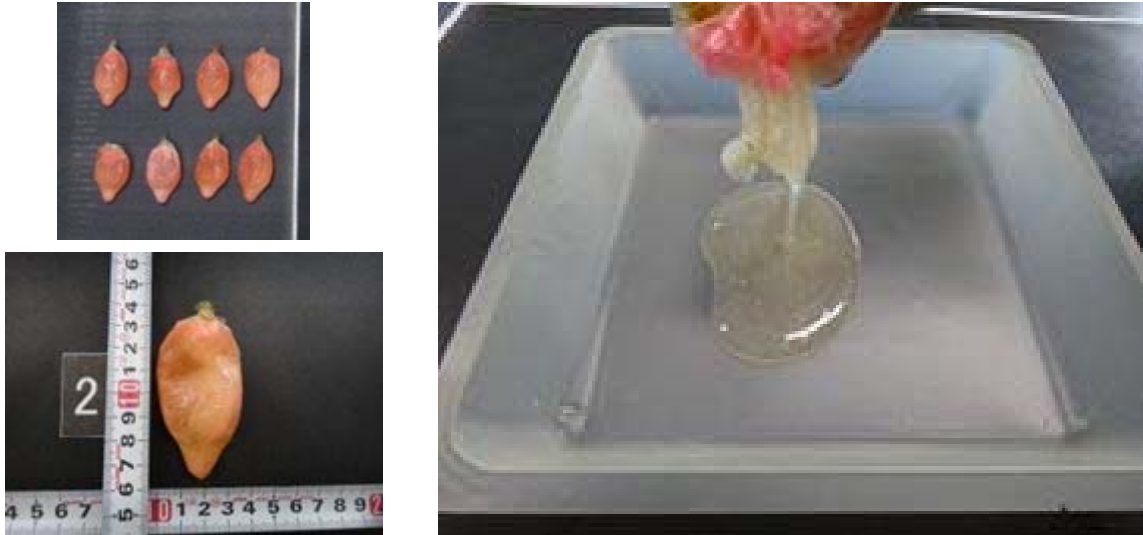

3. Other Illicit Drugs

• Cocaine

【Interdiction of cocaine concealed within the body via swallowing】

In May 2012, Tokyo Customs interdicted about 0.9 kg of cocaine concealed via swallowing within the body of a Bolivian man arriving from Bolivia during hand luggage inspection.

• Heroin

【Interdiction of heroin concealed within the body via swallowing】

In June 2012, Tokyo Customs interdicted about 1 kg of heroin concealed via swallowing within the body of a Czech man arriving from Malaysia.

