

VII. Government Initiatives

1. Ministerial Meeting Concerning Measures against Crime

Considering the current situation where juvenile and heinous crimes occur frequently among the people's everyday lives, the Ministerial Meeting Concerning Measures against Crime was established. The first meeting of the Ministerial Meeting was held in September 2003. The Prime Minister presided over this meeting, which was composed of all the Cabinet ministers. The meeting has the mission to take effective, comprehensive, and active measures in close cooperation with the ministries and other governmental agencies concerned with activities against crime in order to restore Japan as the safest country in the world. After the first meeting, the Ministerial Meeting Concerning Measures against Crime met often to devise various measures adapted to address the crime situation, with the focus placed on support for action by the public to secure their own safety, development of a social environment where crime is less likely, and various anticrime measures including border measures. These measures were advanced as comprehensive anticrime action to make society as a whole stronger against crime. As a result, some improvement was seen in public order in Japan, as the number of reported crimes has fallen to less than half the level reached in the worst post-war period.

Meanwhile, given the fact that new threats, such as cybercrimes, cyberattacks, international terrorism, and organized crime, are emerging, and that social structure is changing, the strategy to create the safest country in the world was drawn up in December 2013 (approved by the Cabinet on the same day) with a view to creating "the safest country in the world, Japan" by reducing crime and building public confidence in security within seven years before the Tokyo Olympics and Paralympic Games, which will be held in 2020. The strategy has been followed-up every six months to steadily realize its aims.

In FY2020, the 33rd Ministerial Meeting Concerning Measures against Crime, which was held in November 2020, discussed the revision of its agreement in April 2016 on the holding of the Liaison Committee among Ministries and Agencies on Measures against Sexual Exploitation of Children, etc., current status of initiatives for preventing recidivism, and the holding of the 14th UN Congress on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice (Kyoto Congress).

2. Meeting for the Promotion of Measures to Prevent Drug Abuse

Based on a Cabinet decision in January 1997, the Headquarters for the Promotion of Measures to Prevent Drug Abuse was established in the Cabinet. While the Headquarters actively promoted various measures against drug abuse, such as the securing of close cooperation between concerned administrative authorities, strict control of drugs, and publicity and public awareness for securing public understanding and cooperation, the Headquarters was reorganized and convened as the Meeting for the Promotion of Measures to Prevent Drug Abuse under the Ministerial Meeting Concerning Measures against Crime in December 2008.

Recognizing the need for medium and long-term strategies to fight drug abuse, the Headquarters decided on the Five-year Drug Abuse Prevention Strategy in May 1998, the New Five-year Drug Abuse Prevention Strategy in July 2003, the Third Five-year Drug Abuse Prevention Strategy in August 2008, and the Drug Abuse Prevention Strategy Acceleration Plan; thus promoting comprehensive and aggressive measures. By these strategies, certain results were achieved; for instance, the number of young people arrested for abusing methamphetamine or cannabis decreased. Drugs sold as "legal herbs," however, spread and in some cases, users of such drugs committed secondary crimes, and the drugs damaged users' health. Even substances similar to the designated ones have appeared and are easily available on the internet. Given these facts, the Fourth Five-year Drug Abuse Prevention Strategy was newly established in August 2013. This strategy aims at the [i] promotion of prevention of drug abuse by raising public awareness or other measures; [ii] prevention of repeated drug abuse through medical treatment or support for rehabilitation for abusers; [iii] eradication of smuggling organizations, strict control of abusers, and strengthening of inspections and instructions; [iv] prevention of drugs from entering Japan through inspection at the border; and [v] international cooperation to prevent the smuggling of drugs. In July 2014, Emergency Measures to Eradicate Dangerous Drug Abuse were compiled as crimes and fatal traffic accidents by dangerous drug abusers came to be recognized as a serious social problem. At present, based on the Fifth Five-year Drug Abuse Prevention Strategy, which was decided at the Meeting for the Promotion of Measures to Prevent Drug Abuse held in August 2018, follow-ups are conducted every year.

3. Meeting for the Promotion of Measures against Firearms

On September 19, 1995, the Headquarters for the Promotion of Measures against Firearms was established in the Cabinet, and had promoted measures proactively, while securing close collaboration among relevant administrative organs. In 2008, this headquarters was re-formed as the Meeting for the Promotion of Measures against Firearms under the Ministerial Meeting Concerning Measures against Crime.

In December 1995, an outline for the promotion of measures against firearms, which clarified the basic government policy on measures against firearms, was drawn up. Concerned government agencies have cooperated to proceed with various measures, drawn up promotion plans for each year, and followed up on the progress of the plans.

At present, based on the Five-year Plan on Promotion of Measures against Firearms, which was established in July 2019 in order to materialize measures provided in the outline from a mid- and long-term perspective and implement them strategically, follow-ups are conducted.
